VISIT
SANIBEL AND CAPTIVA ISLANDS

To reach beautiful Sanibel and Captiva, drive to Punta Rassa, 15 miles southwest of Fort Myers on McGregor Boulevard and cross San Carlos Bay via Automobile Ferry.

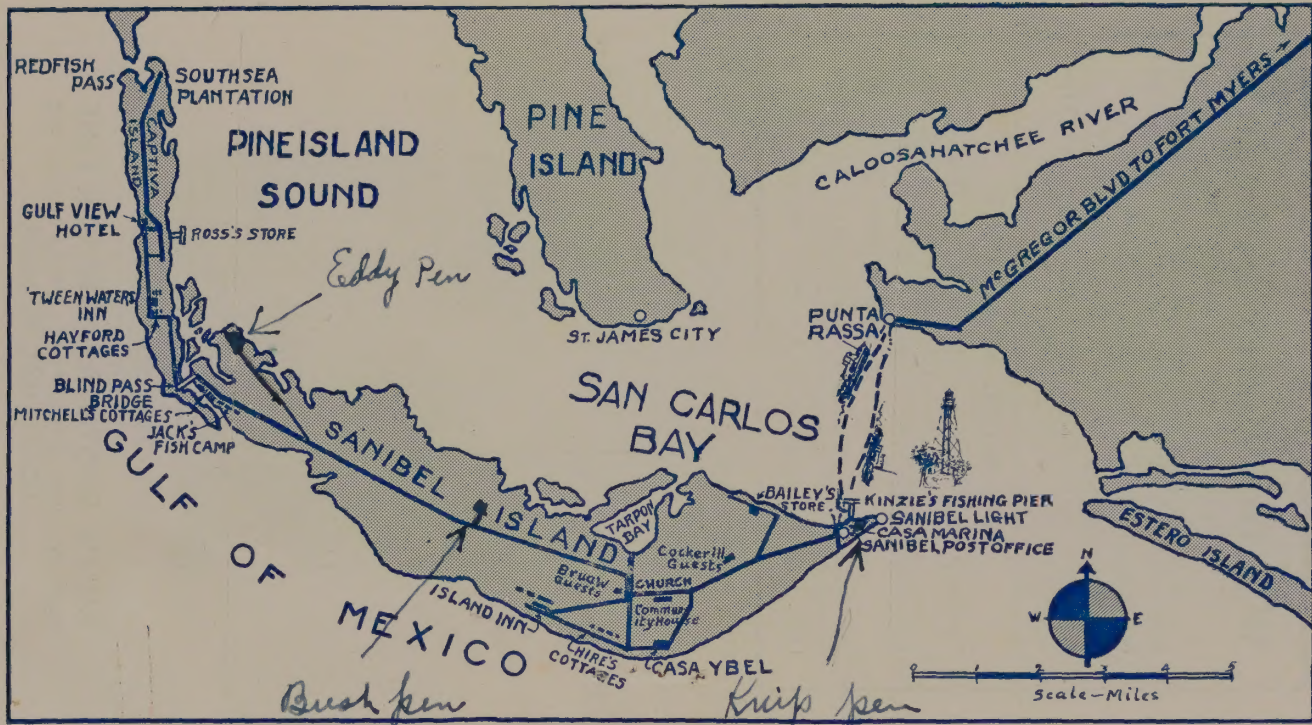

Sanibel and Captiva Islands on Florida's West Coast

SANIBEL and Captiva are two picturesque tropical islands lying in the Gulf of Mexico. They are located in Florida's finest fishing grounds and fishermen come here from all parts of the world to test their skill. Trout, Bluefish, Redfish, Mackerel, and Robalo are caught in abundance. Here is the home of the sporty Tarpon, better known as the "Silver King." Excellent guides and a large variety of boats are available for hire by the day or charter for a cruise, and one may fish from the piers in the bay.

The beaches on Sanibel and Captiva form the finest shell hunting grounds in America. Literally thousands of shells are washed ashore with every tide. Over three hundred varieties may be found. A shell collection made here will bring you pleasure throughout the years.

Sanibel is about fourteen miles long and from one to four miles in width; Captiva is six miles long and varies in width from one-fourth to one mile. These islands are connected by a bridge over Blind Pass. The natural growth on the islands adds to their charm and assists in beautifying the grounds of hotels and homes.

There are general stores on both Sanibel and Captiva to supply the demands of the sportsman as well as the public in general. There is a Post Office on each island, and Western Union service on Sanibel.

The ferry landing on Sanibel is only five minutes' walk to the gulf beach, the government lighthouse and fishing pier. Here is a delightful place for a picnic.

There is a fishing dock within two minutes walk of the ferry landing, built and maintained especially for the use of ferry patrons.

Another popular fishing spot is Blind Pass Bridge, connecting Sanibel and Captiva.

For shelling on Sanibel—drive to Casa Ybel or Island Inn.

For a day's outing, one can drive over both Islands, see points of interest, shell, swim, fish and have lunch at one of the hotels.
